

You're doing amazing, sweetie.

A close-up photograph of a person's finger pressing a glowing blue circular button on the control panel of a Vitamix FoodCycler. The panel is black and features several other buttons and a green indicator light. The background is blurred, showing a kitchen setting with a plant.

Even if you can't finish your budgeting, even if you can't deal with the laundry load, even if it's all you do today, you're still doing your part to save the world. Just by recycling your food. With the Vitamix FoodCycler, you can sustainably manage food waste without leaving your couch. It breaks down food to a 10th of its size and its compact design and odor-proof carbon filters make repurposing food waste too easy to pass up. And if anyone can do it, it's you.

Visit
vitamix.com
to order yours now.

You don't have to push yourself, just push a button

